

All Weather Garden Furniture

You may wonder why you should be choosing all weather garden furniture over the traditional wooden types, but let me tell you now, in 2017 it will make much more sense, and it will save you time and money in the process.

The benefits are obvious:

1. You don't need to oil it
2. You don't need to sand it down
3. You don't need to store it indoors
4. You don't need to buy a cover

You save yourself so much time, and so much money, as much as £50 per year on a furniture cover alone, let alone teak oil and sand paper.

Types of All Weather Furniture

There are various types of furniture that can be considered weatherproof, such as:

Winawood

Winawood is a material made from compressed polystyrene, that looks and feels like wood, but requires no maintenance. It comes in a range of benches, chairs, sets, and love seats.

Rattan Furniture

Our rattan furniture is all weather because it's UV stabilised, and it's made from a strong aluminium frame. It comes in a range of dining sets, sofa sets, and bistro patio sets, perfect for breakfast al fresco! You can see what makes the quality of our rattan different here.
